'Artemus Ward.

[A good many journals are publishing reminiscences of Artemus Ward, which calls to mind one of the finest obituary poems ever written. It was published in The London Specfator bimmeliancy after the death of Mr. Browne in that city, and was attributed to Algernon Charles Swinburne]

Is he gone to a land of no laughter, The man that made migth for us all?

Proves death but a silence hereafter From the sounds that delight or appall? Once closed, have the eyes no more duty, No more pleasure the exquisite ears?

Has the heart done overflowing with beauty, As the eyes have with tears? Nay, if aught can be sure, what is surer Thun that earth's good decays not with earth? And of all the heart springs none are purer

Than the springs of the fountain of mirth. He that sounds them has pierced the heart's hollows, The place where a tour chose to sleep; For the tann-lakes that dance in life's shallows

Are wrung from life's deep. He came with a heart full of gladness, From the glad-hearted world of the West, Won our laughter, but not with mere madness, Spake and joked with us not in mere jest; For the man in our hearts lingered after When the merriment died from our ears, And those who were loudest in laughter Are silent in tears.

Agitation has begun for the abolition of flogging at Newgate prison, London, as a penalty for

There are four indictments against Billy Tweed, the boss thief of the universe; but he is just as unconcerned and deliciously unctuous as ever. An appeal for Prince Napoleon has been made to the French assembly by M. Routher. Napolean proposes to prosecute the minister of the interior for expelling him from France without the authority of law. The force of example is illustrated in the statement of the Abbes Guichester and Renaud that more than 200 priests, including themselves, are about to follow where Pere Hyacinthe has led, and "demand from marriage a felicity which is permitted in the Bible."

How to Cure Dyspersia .- Have a right good talk, with a funny aneedote or two, and a halfdozen hearty laughs, with each meal. This eating alone at a restaurant, and shoveling in the provender in solemn silence, will give dyspepsia

A man recently broke off a marriage because the lady did not possess good conversational powers. A wicked editor, commenting on the fact, says: "He should have married her, and then refused her a new bonnet, to have developed her power of talk."

MUSIC IN FABILIES .- Show us the family where & Co's Drug Store, corner of Fort and Hotel Sts. se21 3m good music is cultivated, where the parents and children are accustomed often to mingle their voices together in song, and we will show you one, in almost every instance, where peace, harmony and love prevail, and where the great vices have no abiding-place.

A barber of Titusville, while cutting the hair | mb23 Fire Proof Buildings, Kashumanu and Queen Sts. 1y of a rural customer, ran his sheers against some hard substance, which proved to be a whetstone. The old farmer said he "had missed that whetstone ever since having time last July, and had looked all over a ten-acre lot for it, but now remembered sticking it up over his ear."

The Empress Eugenie is reported to have assured the pope that the greatest grief caused her by her altered circumstances arises from the reflection that his holiness's downfall is the inevitable consequence thereof. Conceited as is the declaration, there is a deal of truth in it, which none appreciate so fully as does his holiness.

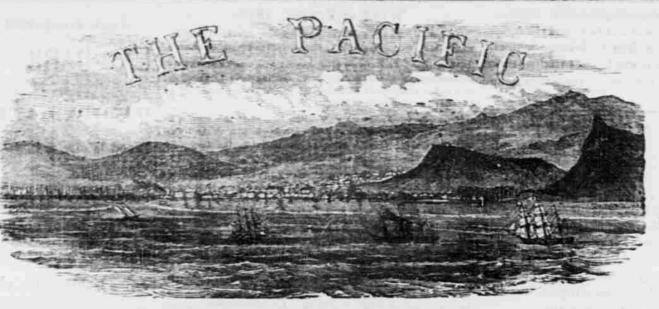

FRENCH LANGUAGE PROSCRIBED IN ALSACE.—Not a word of French, it seems, is allowed to appear on the walls of Strasbourg. Not only are the names of the streets written up in German, but the old familiar French names for them have disappeared. Even police notices of the simplest kind, forbidding whatever may burt the health or decency of the town, and which it is highly desirable that everybody should understand, may not be written in French-the prohibition naturally suggesting remarks more piquant than pleasant, to the effect that the warnings to be cleanly and decent are only given in German, because it is only the Germans who require them.

The Pall Mall Gazette has not much faith in the power of the new way of setting international difficulties, and maintains that, after all, arbitration is but disguised diplomacy. It holds that not at Geneva but at Washington all was granted by the English diplomats which America desired -a formal apology and an admission that England has so far violated its international obligations as to be liable to a claim for compensation. The quarrel was therefore entirely settled at Washington, for so far as regards the amount of compensation demanded it had all along been declared to be indifferent to the American mind, which wanted only what is known in slangy circles as "satisfaction."

The Peoria Review thus corrects the story in the Missouri Democrat about 1,000 sheep who leaped through the window of a covered bridge near Peoria: "This story is very nearly correct. There were, however, only 630 sheep in the drove, instead of 1,000. The bellweather did not see the open window. It did not jump out of it. The flock did not follow it. There is no window in the bridge. The drover did not drive his sheep across the bridge; he crossed at the ferry, three miles higher up stream. If the bridge was 500 feet above high-water mark, the present piers would have to be lengthened 460 feet in order to reach the bridge. There isn't a covered bridge within 1,700 miles of Peoria. With these typographical inaccuracies the romance is correct.'

It is said that Earl Russell is writing a pamphlet, with the purpose of refuting the Chief Justice-it will be the dwarf assailing the giant. Cockburn smites Russell under the fifth rib, all but naming him in this sentence: "The vessel having thus escaped, through want of due dilligence in that department of the government to which it specially appertained to seize her, the entire British Government, and through them the British people, become, as it appears to me, by necessary consequence, involved in a common liability." The head of that department, in 1862, when the Alabama was allowed to escape, was Earl Russell, and no quantity of pamphleteering can rail that fact off the record.

THE COMING CAMERA.-Isn't this the greatest of inventions, and won't it be hailed with a fervor of delight? It comprises a practical photographic opera-glass, which it closely resembles. "One tube," we are told, serves to show the image of the object on a ground plate glass, and the other tube contains the sensitive plate prepared with dry collodion. The plate is shifted from one tube to the other, without being exposed to the light." Is it necessary to dilate upon the value of this invention? For the credit of those who pretend to know a good thing when they see it, we trust not. The American youth will sit in an orchestra chair, with the photograph opera-glass in his clutch, and permanently mirror his favorite danseuse with her best leg in the air. The American belle will pop a focus on her duck of a parson, and preserve the expression of his most joyous hallelujah in a carte de visite. Even the changeful face of a political orator might be shadowed in all its phases.

RIDGE HOUSE!

THE CLIMATE OF THESE ISLANDS is noted the world over for general salubrity, while certain particular localities in the group are more especially favorably known. The district of Kona, on the lee side of Hawali, has long been famed as a place of resort for those afflicted with affections of the lungs. Not a resort for those afflicted with affections of the lungs. Not a few cases have been known of persons who had been given over as sure to die, by their physicians in California, after a few months residence in the pure, mild sir of Koma, recovering robust health and taking a new lease of life.

The undersigned, at his commodious house at Kaawaloa, South Koma, is prepared to furnish good accommodations to boarders at the low rate of $5 per week; including good saddle horses when desired, and good fresh water baths, on the premises, also within a short distance of fine sea bathing. The steamer Kilauea runs regularly between Honolula and the port of Kaawaloa, and horses are kept ready at the beach. Every accommodation and comfort in the way of diet. MILK and HONEY in abundance. Delightful rides in the neighborhood.
